

A photograph of a forest path. The left side of the path is dimly lit with a blue tint, while the right side is brightly lit with a green tint. The path leads into the distance, flanked by tall trees.

HE IS A WISE MAN WHO DOES NOT GRIEVE FOR THE
THINGS WHICH HE HAS NOT,
BUT REJOICES FOR THOSE WHICH HE HAS.

– Epictetus